The image displays a musical score for five instruments: cam, ongas, tim, mar, and gui. The score is organized into four systems, each beginning at a specific measure number: 2, 13, 17, and 26. Each system contains five staves, one for each instrument. The 'cam' staff features a rhythmic pattern of eighth and sixteenth notes with accents. The 'ongas' staff plays a similar pattern but includes 'x' marks above certain notes. The 'tim' staff uses a pattern of eighth and sixteenth notes with slurs and accents. The 'mar' and 'gui' staves play continuous eighth-note patterns. The notation is in black ink on a white background, with a double bar line at the start of each system.

This musical score is organized into four systems, each beginning at a specific measure number: 51, 56, 61, and 66. Each system contains five staves, labeled 'cam', 'ongas', 'tim', 'mar', and 'gui' from top to bottom. The 'cam' staff features eighth notes with flags. The 'ongas' staff uses eighth notes, with 'x' marks placed above certain notes. The 'tim' staff consists of quarter notes, some with accents and slurs. The 'mar' staff shows a continuous eighth-note pattern. The 'gui' staff uses eighth notes with flags. The notation is simplified, with a common time signature indicated by a single vertical line.

The image displays a musical score for a percussion ensemble, consisting of five parts: cam, ongas, tim, mar, and gui. The score is organized into two systems, each beginning at a specific measure number (171 and 176). The notation is written on five-line staves, with each staff corresponding to a specific instrument. The cam part features a series of eighth notes with upward-pointing stems. The ongas part includes a pattern of eighth notes with 'x' marks above certain notes, indicating a specific playing technique. The tim part uses a combination of eighth notes, quarter notes, and half notes, with some notes beamed together. The mar part consists of a continuous stream of eighth notes. The gui part features a pattern of eighth notes with upward-pointing stems. The score is written in a standard musical notation style, with a key signature of one flat and a time signature of 4/4.
